IF IT IS NEW AND TRUE THIS COLUMN HAS IT.

New Officers Elected - Committees Chosen - How To-Morrow - Tobacco Crop Burned - Murderer Caught - Frost Came Early - Universalist Convention.

New Committeesmen Chosen.

Democratic committeesmen were chosen in the four city precincts Tuesday, who will succeed the present members on November 6th.

In precinct No. 1, Esq. Alex Campbell was re-elected, receiving all of the votes cast, 101.

In No. 2, Geo. Bradley was elected without opposition to succeed Councilman Geo. D. Dalton, ineligible for re-election.

In No. 3, Mr. Jas. West declined to stand for re-election and Mr. W. H. Faxon was chosen without opposition.

In No. 4, Mr. Geo. E. Gary, the chairman of the present committee, was not a candidate for re-election and Mr. W. R. Howell and Mr. C. H. Bush were voted for. Mr. Howell was chosen by a good majority. Neither gentleman was a candidate and the voting was entirely complimentary.

The county members will be chosen at precinct mass conventions at 2 p. m. tomorrow.

Dinner to the Twenty-Eves.

Mr. Ira F. Ellis celebrated his 70th birthday last Tuesday by giving a dinner to a number of his friends who were born the same year, 1825. One or two a little older were also let in and the party of nine had a very pleasant old-folk's gathering. They adjourned to meet Jan. 9, 1896, at Maj. Jno. W. Breathitt's, who will give a birthday dinner at that time. Those present were: Jno. W. Breathitt, born Jan. 9, 1825. Ira F. Ellis, "Oct. 1," B. E. Randolph, "July 28," W. E. Warfield, "Sept. 18," Jno. W. Pritchett, "Jan. 19," Mrs. Harriet F. Clark, "July 18," Mrs. E. E. Ellis, "Mar. 16," Dr. E. R. Cook, "Apr. 11, 1824," Wallace W. Ware, "Dec. 31, 1821."

Universalist Convention.

The State Convention of Kentucky Universalists meets at Fruit Hill, this county, to-day, and will be in session three days. Rev. Q. H. Shinn, general superintendent of missions, and other ministers will be in attendance, and a very pleasant meeting is anticipated. On Sunday there will be a big dinner on the grounds and everybody will be well fed. The church has a membership of over 100 and 500 people are expected to be present on the last day of the convention. Rev. Shinn preached at this Wednesday evening and again last night.

Nipped by the Frost.

The first frost of the season came on the morning of Oct. 1, about ten days earlier than usual. It caught considerable late corn and sorghum and some tobacco. We have heard of a few heavy losses. Esq. J. T. Coleman had 13 acres out, Geo. Bodie 25 acres and Jno. Terrell 20 acres. In Caldwell and other counties towards the river it is estimated that one-third the crop was caught. In this county the per cent was much smaller.

Great Court Masters.

This week has been taken up principally in disposing of matters of no interest to the public. Several cases are set for the 13th day of the term, but the most important commonwealth case to come up at this term is that of Jim Kline, col., charged with murder. This is set for the 19th day of the term. The grand jury has been very busy all the week, and a list of bills is expected to be returned about Saturday.

Bob Tivis, Taken In.

Bob Tivis, col., who cut John Walpole, the Gracery butcher, about ten days ago, 'saw behind the bars. Tivis immediately after his escape, left Gracery and was not heard from until Marshal Wilson, of Princeton, captured him Monday. Tivis was brought to this city Tuesday and placed in jail. The grand jury will look after the interests of the commonwealth in this week.

A $3,000 Fire.

Tuesday afternoon the large tobacco barn of Dr. J. A. B. Word, of Oak Grove, containing about 30 acres of fine tobacco, was consumed by fire. The building was a new one and Dr. Word's loss is about $2,000. He had no insurance. Hands had been sleeping in the barn while firing the tobacco and the supposition is that sparks caught the bedding causing the destructive fire.

Preparatory to the Sam Jones meeting there will be services at the First Presbyterian Church, to-night, commencing at 7 o'clock. Everybody invited.

OFFICERS ELECTED.

The Fiscal Court Elected Officers Wednesday to fill several desirable places. The race for county house keeper finally narrowed down to Jas. Boyd, Republican, and Joe Clark, Populist. The three Democrats and the Populist member of the court voted for Clark and Judge Breathitt was called upon to break a tie, which he did by voting for Boyd. The city of Hopkinsville is a partner in the work house, but the county refused to let the city have a vote in electing a keeper and it is likely there will be some litigation over the matter. Boyd is a brother of a former sheriff of that name. He succeeds W. T. Vaughan. There were three candidates for county physician, Drs. Stites, Sergeant and Jackson. Dr. J. B. Jackson was elected. Dr. Stites is the present incumbent.

Thompson Cavanah was again elected poor house keeper. The election of road supervisor has not come off yet.

The court will be in session for some days longer.

KENTUCKY DAY.

How It Will Be Celebrated at the Atlanta Exposition.

President Collier, of the Atlanta Exposition, has designated Saturday, Nov. 16, as Kentucky day at the exposition, upon which occasion the following program, presented under the auspices of Mrs. Dashiell Stephenson and the other Commissioners from Kentucky will be rendered.

"Uncle Peter" Chaffin Dead.

Peter Chaffin, one of the best-known colored men about the city, died Monday night, just one day after his aged wife had dropped dead of heart disease. "Uncle Peter," as everybody called him, was 72 years old and came to this city from "Old Virginia." He never tired of talking about his old home and had come in personal contact with a number of the distinguished men of the State, including "Marshall" Lee. He had an excellent memory and told many stories of his boyhood and early life. When he was a young man a large snake escaped from a menagerie and terrified the inhabitants of his part of the State. It was supposed to be an anaconda, but "Uncle Peter" was unable to handle so large a word and spoke of the serpent as an "abacoondoo" and gave graphic description of its pug pass through the county and its final disappearance in the sea, swimming with its head far above the water. Who is there in town who has not heard him tell this story? "Uncle Peter" was a gardener and saved the money he made. He was well-to-do and paid his debts with scrupulous honesty. He was reliable, faithful, polite and uniformly respectful. He took great pride in his calling and his work was always well done. He was one of the few remaining types of the old-fashioned darkey, with many good traits of character and few of the bad ones. He was a true and industrious, truthful and honest man and was a consistent member of the Methodist church.

He was buried Tuesday in the Colored Cemetery near the city.

Good Prices were Realized.

The tobacco market this week was strong on the better kind of the weed and good round figures were obtained for that disposed of. Sales amounted to less than 200 hogheads, but there were very few rejections. Little fine leaf was shown, the bulk of the sale being made up of common leaf and lugs. Receipts are very light.

PROCEEDINGS

OF THE CHRISTIAN COUNTY TEACHERS' INSTITUTE.

Prof. Bartholomew, of Louisville, Ky., Conductor.

our school-rooms, there would be a revolution here.

WEDNESDAY, Aug. 28th, 1895.

EVENING SESSION.

Prof. Bartholomew spoke of the condition of Kentucky at the close of the war. Not a single normal school low status of our teachers then. The wonderful improvement since.

Prof. Dorland then read an able essay entitled "The Teacher." Here are a few good points: Luck is a fool, luck is a hero. Make no promises you cannot fulfill. Have a programme and stick to it. Do not threaten. Have monthly reports. Give no prizes. S. J. Fisher was for exercises. Encourage visitation to your school. The teachers gave the speaker very close attention, and appreciated the many useful suggestions in which this admirable essay abounded.

Prof. Armer then gave a fine rendition of "Sparks."

Prof. W. E. Gray took up the subject of History. This study, if properly presented, will be found to be very interesting. Outlines good for advancement of a patriotic feeling, so makes good citizens. Lives of great men are an inspiration to the young. Make thorough preparation before going to your class. Many pertinent questions will suggest themselves to you. Assign special topics to different members. In five months a beginning class should master early explorers and discoveries and the Revolutionary war. Much would depend upon the class.

Prof. Murphy said that at the close of the relation he called for an outline of the lesson and asked for omitted points. Made the pupils attentive.

A teacher of Prof. Bartholomew's acquaintance was in the habit of having striking historical incidents added in the school-room. In this manner she treated the story of Pocahontas and Capt. Smith. Patrick Henry's speech before the Virginia House of Burgesses, etc. This interested the children deeply and vitalized the text.

The Superintendent then read the programme for Thursday's work, after which the Institute adjourned.

TUESDAY, August 29th, 1895.

MORNING SESSION.

Music by Prof. Pooler. Scripture reading and prayer by Rev. Vail. Roll call. Minutes read and approved.

Prof. Bartholomew then addressed the Institute on mistakes in teaching. Teaching is not mere school-keeping, neither is it imparting information alone. It is putting the child in an attitude to learn. Do not get in the child's way. Direct his studies. Tell him nothing he can learn for himself. In order to do good teaching we must understand the child thoroughly. Then skillfully arouse his curiosity. The common errors are abnormal develop those. If one sense is helped it tones up the other. Character is the amount of power a man has for resisting temptation. This depends on the will. So correct teaching is a training of the will. A teacher must first pass through his consciousness all the points of the lesson as they must pass through the child's mind. Review all lessons from primary to advanced work. In doing this I strive to not myself in the child's attitude. Having thoroughly reviewed the situation I am master of the situation. So I gain the respect of the class. Nine times out of ten disorder is brought about because the instructor is not properly prepared. Never tell your class what you propose to do next. Special topics ought to be assigned after the pupil has had an opportunity to get the lesson. Put yourself in such a relation to the pupil that he will always think you are doing the best under the circumstances. Don't assign great lessons. Bear in mind the physical basis. For small children have variety in your programme - with short recitations not more than eight or ten minutes in length. Give hints and suggestions that may help the student. Let him, however, work out his own salvation. Don't let him depend too much on the instructor. You should have a programme. Having once arranged, stick to it. Of course there are occasional when you may suspend the regular exercises. Those, of course, are rare. Any one can get good results out of bright pupils. The highest power is shown in developing the bright pupil.

Prof. Daifey opened the discussion on written and oral spelling. Object: To know to spell orally or write a word when called upon. To learn to read and to write. Would begin written spelling at an early age. At first a mere copying form on the blackboards. Would teach spelling

HIS LAST SPIEE.

Riley Boyd, the Son of a Distinguished Father Found Dead in Bed.

PAIDUCAN, Ky., Sept. 30.-Riley Boyd, the lawyer and politician, and recently a minister of the gospel, was found dead in his bed at the Boyd mansion this morning, by an old colored servant, who went to his room to awake him for breakfast.

Several times lately he had threatened to commit suicide, and as soon as the news of his death became known the supposition was that he had taken his own life. The coroner's jury, however, returned a verdict of death from heart disease superinduced by excessive alcohol.

Recently his dormant appetite for strong drink took possession of him while in St. Louis, and he came here three weeks ago, having been in an insubstantial condition ever since one of the hotels. Coming as it did directly after six months of successful preaching his friends lost faith in him, and to make matters worse, a woman whom he had met sent his letters to one of his wife's relatives. His wife returned yesterday from St. Louis, and he told her he intended to sober up and do better. The doctor was with him, but left him early in the evening, and Boyd wandered about the house until 3 o'clock, when he retired without removing his clothes.

He was found dead a few hours later. No mark of violence was found upon him, there were no indications of poison. His mother died last January and he leaves a half-brother, Butler Boyd, of Clarksville.

Riley Boyd was born in Paiducan April 14, 1853, and was a son of the Hon. Linn Boyd, prominent in Kentucky politics during a lifetime and twice speaker of the house during his congressional career. He had practiced law here since manhood, and was first married to Miss Lucy Grimes several years ago, who committed suicide in St. Louis a month or two later. His second marriage was to Mrs. Irving Thompson, of Henderson, whose maiden name was Richmond. Several months ago he announced himself a candidate for the legislature, but afterward withdrew from the race and entered the ministry as an evangelist, preaching at several places in Kentucky and Tennessee, and assisting at one time Rev. Fife. His career has been a checkered one. There was one time when he could have had any office in the gift of the people of this district, but drink was his curse.

BIG DEMOCRATIC GAIN.

The Republican Majority in the City Most Wiped Out.

The city registration Tuesday was the largest ever recorded on the regular list. The total of 1,301 was within 14 votes of the total of 1,275 last year and 95 greater than on the regular day in 1894. The figures show that nearly all of the increase in the city vote is Democratic, and that there is no longer a Republican majority in the city. Unless Democrats scratch the velvet, the city will give a Democratic majority next November. Analyzing the vote and pairing off the doubtful votes, the political complexion of the registered vote is as follows:

| 1894.  |    |     |     |     |     |        |    |     |     |
|--------|----|-----|-----|-----|-----|--------|----|-----|-----|
| No.    | W. | C.  | R.  | D.  | R.  | No.    | W. | C.  | R.  |
| 1894.  | 21 | 178 | 219 | 77  | 27  | 1894.  | 21 | 178 | 219 |
| No. 1. | 8  | 89  | 48  | 181 | 30  | No. 1. | 8  | 89  | 48  |
| No. 2. | 4  | 71  | 48  | 181 | 30  | No. 2. | 4  | 71  | 48  |
| No. 3. | 20 | 240 | 110 | 284 | 70  | No. 3. | 20 | 240 | 110 |
| No. 4. | 75 | 607 | 608 | 72  | 543 | No. 4. | 75 | 607 | 608 |

It is estimated that about 150 additional names will be registered on the supplemental days, Oct. 28, 29 and 30. At least all of these will be Democrats.

Dr. Clardy carried the city last year by five votes and was deprived of at least 30 majority in precinct No. 4, where by his own admission he had good work and straight voting the city can be counted upon to give at least fifty majority for the Democratic ticket. Very few Democrats refused to register their party affiliation, which indicates that there will be but little scratching done.

Some Short-Range Assignments.

The Methodist Conference at Madisonville has not made a full report of the assignments when we went to press. Among those reported were the following:

Rev. H. C. Settle, returned to Hopkinsville.

Rev. L. L. Collio to Jeffers & St. Louisville.

Rev. T. V. Joiner to Hopkinsville circuit.

Rev. Geo. F. Campbell to Franklin, Ky.

Rev. M. J. Lawson, Presiding Elder Russellville district.

Rev. J. A. Lewis to Russellville. The local church is much gratified that Dr. Settle comes back to this city again.

The District of Columbia grand jury recommended that the shipping post be established for wife beaters and petty offenders.

CRUSHED THE SNEERER.

An American Teacher Who Was Very Fateful.

An Italian gentleman whom I met while traveling disclosed a most derived impression of the wonderful vastness of the United States, says a writer in Scribner's.

He spoke English very well, for he had been many years in London, and, as we were enjoying the sea-coast view between Pisa and Via Regio, he asked glibly whether I was not an American from "the state of" on learning what I was he begged me to tell him something of our government.

"You have a president of the country, the whole states, is 'not' he inquired earnestly.

"Indeed assent.

"Is bene! If a man kills—murders, you understand—tells him, the federal or state courts?"

"The state courts," I replied, "unless it is a case of treason."

"If he is convicted, of course" he asked, with calm assurance, and a slight emphasis on the "of course."

"No, indeed! the murderer is tried in the state courts; he can be pardoned by the state board of pardons, if one, or by the state's chief governor. The president to do with it."

"I dashed my companion, sarcasm, Italy the governor of a province has not the pardoning power."

"But I thundered, now thoroughly angry, Italy will go twice into the penalty of Texas."

"It was very naughty to get angry, and especially with such a politely sarcasm," he Italian, I know it. But was could still and hear the sheer, unapproachable—nay, glorious—immensity of our country assailed without getting angry? No one except the American, for, who every now and then sings with a brazen assertion that America, after all, not such a virtue.

Violent

A Philadelphia lawyer said a very bright thing the other day. He was seated with a group of friends, and they were discussing in a desultory way the leading topics of the day. One of the parties present, Mr. —, persisted in monopolizing more than his share of the conversation, and his views did not at all accord with those of the lawyer.

As the men separated one of the lawyer.

replied the lawyer: "He knows too much for one man to be incorporated."—Green Bag.

VIBUS IN GLASS BULBS.

New Method of Vaccination Practiced in Chicago.

Health Officers introduce a Process That Does Away with Punctures—How the Tests Are Made and the Preventive Applied.

Chicago is in the eyes of the medical world just now; for that city is giving evidence its first accurate knowledge of vaccination as a distinct department of research and observation.

Before the days of Assistant Health Commissioner Frank W. Bell, and Chief Medical Inspector E. Garrott, of the Chicago department, an idea pre-valled generally that vaccination was a trivial matter—to be done by anybody, anywhere, anyhow and with any kind of bovine or human vaccine virus. All this is changed now, states the Chicago Record.

The theory of Drs. Garrott and Bell is that vaccination is important enough to engage the attention and enlist the learning of the ablest practitioners. They cry out against the idea that anybody can inoculate a patient as well as the physician.

At the present time the medical heads of the health department are making exhaustive studies of the subject and are compiling statistics which they expect will become authoritative throughout the world in the matter of smallpox prevention.

Every grain of vaccine matter used by the department is subjected to tests as severe as can be devised. First, samples are sent to Dr. Gehrmann, the chemist and bacteriologist of the department. He makes a "culture"—that is to say, he sees how many kinds of germs he can raise from the sample of virus. Then he puts the bacilli under his microscope to see whether any of them are the agents of erysipelas, of pus formation or of septic diseases—blood poisoning and the like. If he finds the virus to be free from those dangerous germs he sends back a report "O. K." Dr. Garrott then takes samples of the same lot and vaccinates a dozen persons, testing smallpox protection. If the virus "takes" in a majority of the cases and if the sores produced are "typical," without improper symptoms, such as matter discharges and excessive soreness, he decides that the virus is good. In all these tests, however, results are "checked" against standards of known effect. Should any lot of virus produce many failures or give rise to bad results the whole is rejected and sent back to the factory.

An entirely new kind of vaccine "points" is being used in Chicago now.
The old bone slips dipped in virus are obsolete, except as employed in private practice. The evils of the old sort were that the virus was always exposed to the air, that dangerous germs of all kinds collected on the points and that the virus was almost always weak and uncertain in its action. Frequently the use of these points caused mild blood poisoning and other distinct diseases, and they often made fearfully sore arms, abscesses and fevers.

The new points are different. They are made of glass drawn in flame, filled with liquid virus as soon as the glass tubes are cool enough and hermetically sealed by melting the tips of the glass. The virus in these tubes is mixed with glycerine, which prevents decay and stops the development of any foreign germs, so that if the points are kept cool and in the dark they will keep active and perfect for a long time.

When a vaccination is to be performed the doctor takes one of these sealed glass points, cleans it with an antiseptic solution, also cleans the arm to be treated, also cleanses his lancet by drawing it through a flame. Then he makes a single puncture on the arm—not enough to draw blood—and inserting out of the unusual vaccine point into a Pasteur rubber bulb syringe he forces the virus into the scratch on the arm. In a few days it "works," and the patient is proof against smallpox for several years.

The new operation is absolutely certain when the subject is susceptible to the vaccine, blood-poisoning is impossible and evil effects never are observed after it. The old argument that vaccination might implant tuberculous germs is exploded, for with the preliminary tests such, microbes are not present in the virus.

Spiders That Change Color.

An interesting instance of color mir-age in spiders has been observed in the south of France. The spiders of that region, when in search of prey, hide in the convolvulus flowers. It has been noticed that a white variety of spider frequented the white flowers; a greenish colored variety made the green flowers his home, and a pink one lived principally in the pink flowers. The colors of the three varieties were at first supposed to be permanent, but it has recently been discovered that the color of any one of these spiders changes within a few days if the insect be placed in the convolvulus of a different colored flower to that which he has been using as his home. Four spiders, pink, white, green and yellow in color, were all put into a box together and within three days all were white.

An Accommodating Rat.

The Mexican owl, when enjoying a siesta, puts itself under the guard of a kind of fat, that gives the alarm on the approach of danger.

Largest Cut Stone.

The largest cut stone in the world is in the Temple of the Sun at Baalbec.

A CLOSE TRADE.

An Instance of "Neurones" That Is Hard to Beat.

The close-fisted and the absent-minded serve a similar use—they amuse their neighbors. The New York Sun quotes a man from the rural districts as telling a story of a Mr. Putterby, an old-time townsman of his, whose reputation for "neurones" was evidently well deserved. Locally he was thought to be almost a prodigy in this respect, but no story of this kind is so good but that another can be found to beat it.

One of the coins current in those days was the old Spanish silver-piece, which passed for twelve and a half cents, and was variously called "valenpence," "York shilling" and "bit." It was the existence of this coin that enabled Mr. Putterby to achieve his crowning triumph in the way of a close trade.

A farm-boy came along one day with a load of pumpkins, which he was peddling about the village as a cent apiece.
Mr. Putterby looked at them, concluded to buy, but wanted only half a pumpkin.

"But a whole one is only a cent," said the boy. "How are you going to pay me for half a one?"

"The best thing in the world," said Mr. Putterby.

The pumpkin was cut, he took one-half under his arm, and handed the boy a shilling.

"Now give me the twelve cents change," he said; and taking the twelve coppers from the astonished boy, he walked away with his purchase.

The Dominant's Blunder.

An English clergyman, who was suddenly called on to preach to a congregation of college students was unable to speak without notes, and had only one written sermon with him, which was on the duties of the married state.

The topic was hardly one that he would have chosen for the occasion, but he hoped that it would pass muster as being appropriate by anticipation. But, unfortunately, he did not read the sermon over, and so, before he knew it, he had uttered this appeal: "And, now, a word to you who are mothers."

Twenty Years Proof.

It has been noted that the first settlers in heavily-wooded sections of the country have generally been healthy, despite their many privations. The reason for this is, says Hall's Journal of Health, that trees and plants of all kinds possess the power of absorbing poisoned air from decaying vegetation, besides which the emanations from evergreens and the smoke from burning resinous woods are noted for the relief they give to those suffering from pulmonary diseases.

New, heavily-wooded countries, as already noted, are the most healthy for settlers, and they continue so for many years, as only a portion of the forest can be cleared away each year. After the forest is cleared and sunlight is admitted rapidly with vegetation, which decomposes more rapidly than it can be absorbed by the scant vegetation, and poisoned atmosphere is rendered dense and malarial becomes a common complaint. In view of these facts, people are beginning to understand the value of trees and their absorbing and health-giving agents. Naturally this leads to the question as to what trees are best for protection against disease.

On Long Island and in New Jersey there are healthy settlements surrounded and hemmed in with pitch pines which are famed for their curative qualities in consumption, and the pines are thus indicated as valuable surroundings in pulmonary complaints. It would seem reasonable to suppose that trees having the largest leaves and the most of them would be the best for this purpose, as such trees would undoubtedly have the most absorbing power. We have seen the eucalyptus tree mentioned as of special value as a purifier of the atmosphere.

COTTON STATES FAIR.

The Great Southern Exposition, Opened in Grand Style.

Buildings of Great Size and Excellent Arrangement—What the Nations of Europe and America Are Displaying.

Special Athens (Ga) Letter.
The opening of the Cotton States and International exposition at Atlanta, Ga., September 18, marked a new epoch in the relations between the north and south. The ceremonies followed so closely upon the opening of the Chickamauga-Chatanooga national park and the great Grand Army encampment at Louisville that they may be said to have cemented the bond of brotherhood entered into by the boys in blue and the boys in gray at their profitable and entertaining reunion.
The month of September, 1893, will live in American history forever, because it witnessed the end of sectionalism and the beginning of the end of the long question in the south.

Judge Emory Speer, of the United States court at Macon, Ga., delivered a eloquacious speech at Atlanta, which was as full of national sentiment as was Henry Waterson's magnificent prof. proem, which is still the talk of both sections of the country. The Prof. Booker T. Washington, most famous of negro educators, astounded his thousands of hearers by pointing out the progress made by his race in every line of legitimate industry. The professor proved his statements by figures, and convinced his audience that harmonious cooperation would benefit the blacks not a whit more than the whites.

The wheels of the exposition were set in motion by President Cleveland, who touched a gold-rimmed button attached to a wire connecting his Buzzard's Bay retreat with the motor in the machinery hall at Atlanta. This act of the nation's chief magistrate closed the elaborate opening programme, and the people of the south, assisted by a large delegation from the north, took possession of the exposition grounds whose beauty has been commented upon time and again in these columns.

The Cotton States fair, although not yet complete, will be the greatest exposition ever held in the United States, excepting only the Chicago fair. In some respects the Cotton States exposition at Philadelphia was superior to this

CENTRAL SECTION OF BAS-RELIEF OF TERRA-COTTA ON MACHIN-ERY BUILDING.

southern enterprise, but in others it was decidedly inferior. Foreign exhibitors have taken a lively interest in the Atlanta fair, probably because it promises to open a new market for their manufactures.

Mexico mines a complete exhibit of her resources, and a picturesque Mexican village has been built on the grounds. Guatemala will also have a village, in addition to the national exhibit. Nicaragua, Honduras, Venezuela and Colombia also all space.
Cuba has a fine exhibit of tobacco and other products of the island.

The European exhibits comprise these: Great Britain—Artistic pottery, electro plate and silverware, cut crystal, Sheffield cutlery, Birmingham goods, Bradford woolsens and cloth, Coventry cycles, pianos, furniture, chemical products, terra cotta statuary, modern and railway appliances, books, etc.

France—Tapestries, rich drawing-room furniture, bronzes, lamps, statuary, holocaust, scene in a room, electric appliances, marine and mathematical instruments, Parisian novelties, jewelry and fancy ornaments, enamel apparatus used at Pasteur Institute for the discovery and treatment of bacteria and bacilli, perfumery, soaps, wines and liquors.

Germany—Plates, artistic majolica, Dresden china and glassware, cut stones, new photo paintings and scientific apparatus and appliances.

Italy—Most important and beautiful collection of marble statuary, carved and artistic furniture of all description, decorated panels and drawing-room ornaments, artistic bronzes, Roman and Florentine mosaics, Venetian glassware, artistic majolica and ceramics, Neapolitan corals and tortoiseshell ornaments, Roman canons, architectural and high-class jewelry, tapestries, cloth and cotton fabrics, hats, bicycles and sewing machines, chemical and pharmaceutical products, scientific and scientific books and publications, and a great variety of exhibits in olive oil, wines and liquors.

Holland—Brussels lace, embroidery, patent hand stitching machines, operative exhibits of glass engraving, fancy goods, chocolates, spices, etc.

Russia—A very important collection of Russian furs, from one of the largest fur manufacturers of St. Petersburg; also a splendid collection of stuffed beasts, birds and other animals, Russian silverware with and enamel, carved wood and art fabrics, etc.

The various exposition buildings are nearing completion rapidly, but they are even now worth visiting. Besides the United States government building the following structures are open to the public: Manufactures and Liberal Arts, 215x70 feet; Machinery, 100x50 feet; Minerals and Geology, 80x20 feet; Agriculture, 150x300 feet; Electricity, 81x300 feet; Transportation, 130x415 feet; Woman's building, 110x250 feet; Fine Arts building, 100x250 feet; Negro building, 100x300 feet. The buildings are imposing, substantial and roomy.

The designs being mainly Romanesque in style, which shows the best work of the negro race in every department of the art.

labor, and its progress in education and industrial pursuits since the emancipation. The commissioners of the department are leading colored men of the various southern states.

Many states have buildings of their own on the exposition grounds, among them New York, Pennsylvania, Alabama, Georgia, Massachusetts, Connecticut and California. The Illinois building, one of the best on the grounds, will not be completed until the end of October.

lages. Then there is a big revolving wheel, and no end of other novelties that will make the "Midway Heights" an exceptionally lively place. The electric fountain will compare with that of the Chicago exposition. The water rises 150 feet and flows at the rate of 12,000 gallons a minute. One of the features of historic interest will be the old liberty bell from Philadelphia.

The awards to be given by the Cotton States and International exposition officials are to be on a strictly competitive basis. President Gifford, of Johns Hopkins university, is chief of the bureau of awards, and has evolved a system which he has called the "Atlanta system." It invited recognized experts in every department of labor, industrial, artistic, or otherwise, to serve as judges, and has been particularly fortunate in securing the consent of those invited. His system recognizes four degrees of excellence in exhibits.

The lowest is that of honorable mention. The next includes original designs and superior workmanship, and for these qualities a bronze medal will be awarded. The third degree includes a notable achievement in any art or industry, and this will be recognized with a silver medal. The highest award, a gold medal, will be made for exhibits which not only display the qualities already mentioned, but have a distinct educational value.

Of Atlanta itself little need be said.
That the city is possessed of pluck is shown by its attempting this enterprise so shortly after the World's Columbian exposition. The business quarter is built compactly. The electric cars run to every part of the city. There are many beautiful residence streets, and taken altogether Atlanta is one of the prettiest cities in the south. Georgia, Tennessee and Alabama expect that the exposition will be a great benefit to them, inasmuch as it will acquaint the northerner with the rich mineral fields and the fertile agricultural districts awaiting settlement in five years. At Atlanta has doubled its population, and it is believed that this opportunity to study the possibilities of the south will not only benefit Atlanta, but the surrounding territory.

WORK OF THE MISSISSIPPI.

Every Year the Force of Waters Carries Down a Square Mile of Land.

The Mississippi has in the course of ages transported from the mountains and high land within its drainage area sufficient material to make 40,000 square miles of new land by filling up an estuary which extended from its original outlet to the Gulf of Mexico for a length of 500 miles, and in width from 80 to 40 miles. This river, says Longman's Magazine, is still pouring solid matter into the gulf, where it is spread out in a fan-like shape over a coast line of 160 miles, and is filling up at the rate of 900,000,000 tons a year, or six times as much soil as was removed in the construction of the Manchester ship canal, and sufficient to make a square mile of new land, allowing for it having to fill up the gulf to a depth of 80 yards.

Some idea of the vastness of this operation may be conceived when the fact is considered that some of this soil has to be transported more than 8,000 miles; and that if the whole of it had to be carried on boats at the lowest rate at which heavy material is carried on the inland waters of America, or, say, for one-tenth of a penny per ton per mile, over an average of half the total distance, the cost would be no less a sum than $288,000,000 a year. Through the vast delta thus formed the river winds its way, thin and narrow, by innumerable bends until it extends its length to nearly 1,200 miles, or more than double the point-to-point length of the delta itself. The usual method banks in one place and building up land in another, occasionally breaching its way across a narrow neck which lies between the two extremities and filling up the old channel.

PEN AND INK DRAWING.

Modern Imitation of the Ancients by a New Process.

It is easy, of course, to understand how pen drawing should have come to be so largely employed and elaborated.
It is a matter of reproduction for illustration. An etching will not print with type, nor with a steel engraving. This, says the London Spectator, led in the early part of the century to the imitation of steel engravings by wood engravers, who did the business most skillfully with immense labor. The drawings for them were mostly made in pencil. But photographic process rendered the intervention of the wood engraver needless, if the artist made a pen drawing that would photograph and process well. A pure technical difficulty can be overcome by large numbers of craftsmen; large numbers, accordingly, have learned to make pen drawings to supplant wood engravings.
But it should be noted that to do this is itself a kind of reproductive process.
Few elaborate pen drawings are made without a studious foundation in some other material. The pen line must frequently be traced or drawn over the pencil line, very much like the engraver's tool.

The point about the moderns and ancients, then, resolves itself into the imitation by the moderns in a new medium of the technique of an old medium. It is certain that the ancients could have performed this feat if they had chosen, not altogether certain that they would have chosen. For, to consider those other points of reproduction and dissemination, the modern master seems to be in no greater hurry than the ancient to make use of the new facilities.
When such a master does take up the pen, he handles it to much grander effect than do his devotees.

BOY AND ROBIN.

Friendship of the Two Brought About by Cold Weather.

During the extremely severe weather of February, 1893, myriads of birds perished from cold and starvation, both in Europe and the United States. In England this destruction was the more sorrowful, perhaps, as the country where the birds winter is more thickly settled than with us, and there were more to see their sufferings. But occasionally the British birds found friendly shelter.

The London Times published, during the cold weather, this note from Robert Wallace, a boy of twelve years, who lives at Tunbridge Wells:

"I thought perhaps you would allow a schoolboy to tell you how very time and fear the cold and hunger have made the wild birds around our house."
"Of course we feed them with bread and all sorts of odds and ends, and the ground is simply black with our hungry visitors. Even the suspicious rooks come quite close to the house for their share."

"A little blue-tit passes its day in our basement, heedless of sleepy sparrow baking herself before the stove."

"Most of all I wish to tell you about my strange bedroom companion, a little robin, which has taken up its residence in my bedroom; and though I leave the window open, he never goes out except to take a short fly. We wash the night together, and he makes his bed in one of my football boots."

"The other morning he woke me up by singing on a chair at the side of my bed. I suppose he thought I ought to be at my lessons."

Not a Good Lickens.

It is not always easy to recognize the "gentlemen and ladies of sculpture."
The wonder the last is in the following story, taken from the Evangelist. was somewhat in doubt: In the "monument room" of Trinity church is a large marble tablet set up in memory of the late Bishop Hobart. It is a bas-relief, representing the bishop, as dying, and sinking into the arms of an allegorical female figure, probably intended for the angel of death. Years ago an aged couple from the country were shown about the church, and when they reached the tablet they paused long before it. At last the dear old lady said, "That's a good likeness of the bishop," she said, "but—here she regarded the angel personage attentively—"It's a poor one of Mrs. Hobart. I knew her well, and she didn't look like that!"

Round Oak Stove.

Now is the time to buy heating stoves. The Round Oak is still in the lead. It is the only air tight stove on the market. The genuine ROUND OAK found only at Forbes & Bro. It heats more on less fuel than any stove made and will out last a half dozen of the cheap imitations.

Majestic Range.

We sold more majestic ranges last year than were ever sold before in the same time, and the reason they sell is because they are the best and most economical baker's made. The oven is the most important part of a cooking apparatus, the fire box is the digestive organ and the draft the circulation. These organs in the Majestic are different from any stove or range made. The Majestic oven is the most satisfying, the fire box the most economical and the draft the simplest and most perfect.

Tom Pettit in an interview published in the Louisville Post, jumps on Bradley and ridicules the idea that he would withdraw in favor of the Democratic candidate. He goes further and declares that a change should come in the management of the Post, saying "It is hardly combed, evened, straightened and mismanaged, and any change would better the condition." This intimation of the Populist candidate ought to cause even the most skeptical of the Post's candidacy to entirely in the hands of Bradley. He has been recently caught hobnobbing with James in Louisville and his candidacy is intended to take votes from Bradley and thereby make Bradley's success impossible. If any Democrat or Unionist citizen is intending to vote for Pettit, he may face the issue and decide whether he is a hardin to Bradley. If he is a satisfied Democrat, then a vote for hardin is the duty that confronts him. If he wants to prevent Kentucky passing into the hands of a controlled by negroes and allies, Pettit has thrown off his mask. He is doing all he can to make Bradley and defeat hardin.

Why Boyd's life has come to a close and he will be remembered as a useful example of the curse of perennance. The son of an illustrious, naturally bright, well educated, capable lawyer, a fluent speaker and a polished orator, he had made him to take a place among the great men of his state, but he had away all hope of success in life and become a slave to an appetite that dragged him even from the grave and consigned him to a drunkard's grave.

MILLIONS IN WHEELS.

Bicycling Is Much More Than a Passing Fad.

Estimates on the Amount of Money Employed in Their Manufacture in This Country—Great Army of Workmen.

People who call bicycling a passing fad have probably never stopped to consider what an enormous amount of capital is employed in the business of making wheels in this country, and probably have no idea of the number of people dependent upon the business, says the Chicago Herald. The figures are astonishing. There are in the country to-day about 130 good-sized bicycle man- ufactories. If all the smaller concerns were counted in, concerns that turn out from 50 to 200 bicycles a year, the number would be swelled to about 300. The number of bicycles these 300 factories will produce this year will not be less than 500,000. At an average cost of $75 each to the buyer this means that $37,500,000 will be spent in this country this year for bicycles, providing, of course, the entire product is sold. But there is little doubt of that. Go to a bicycle store and try to buy a high-grade wheel. They will take your order and tell you they will deliver the wheel in a couple of weeks. More good wheels have been sold this season than have been made, and it is doubtful if some of the manufac- turers catch-up before the season flies.

But the $37,500,000 do not cover the entire expenditures in the bicycle way of the people of the country. There are costumes—bloomers and such—lamps, cyclometers, patent mudguards and patent tires—that and the other kind of apparatus that will swell the sum to $50,000,000. Where does all this vast sum of money go? Well, in the first place, some of the manufacturers who, a few years ago, were poor men, are now immensely wealthy. But there can be nothing unusual or particu- larly undesirable in that; they built up the business from nothing and have furnished the public with one of the greatest sources of enjoyment ever known. Some of the rest of the money, after the manufacturers have had their bit, goes for material and the balance to the army of workmen, women, boys and girls, whose labor turns the raw steel, rubber, wood and leather into the finished product.

How many are in that army? The number can only be estimated. In a Chicago factory alone turn out 30,000 bicycles a year, 800 people, mostly fullgrown men, are employed. That would be an average of 37.5 bicycles to each employee. If there are 500,000 machines to be made and each employee makes thirty-seven and one-half machines, there would have to be, therefore, 13,333 employees. But as there can't be very well be a third of an employee it may be well to drop the fraction, call the number even 13,333, and let one of them work a little overtime.

That estimate, however, includes only the people employed in the actual or exclusively bicycle fac- tories. It takes no account of the workmen employed in machine shops making bicycle "parts," which are sent to the bicycle factories and handled by the employees there only as the bicycles are put together. The Chicago factory mentioned above does not manufacture more than one-half the parts of its own machine. That fact of course makes it necessary to double the 13,333 to find the number of people in the bicycle army, which gives 26,666, and still not including the country agents and their salesmen and help- ers, who surely swell the total to 30,000. Next year enough more money will be invested, factories started, people employed and wheels made to increase by half all the estimates above given.

A party of Lexington (Ky.) pic- nickers, who went to high bridge recently, found in the woods near there what they thought was an empty box. An owl came, and a man told them that the body of his wife was in the box. The man, who was Dr. T. J. Frye, said that his wife died in Virginia two years ago; that on her death she requested him to bring her body back to her place of nativity for burial. Being so poor that he was unable to keep his promise when she died he placed her body in a pine box, which he had ordered on the inside with beeswax. He kept it until a few weeks ago when he brought it to Lexington.

A new monthly illustrated magazine for young people has just been started by Frank Leslie's Publishing House. It is called Frank Leslie's Pleasant Hours for Boys and Girls, and is in every way equal to the best publications of its kind, although the price is but 10 cents. The first number (October) contains the opening chapters of a serial story for boys by Edward S. Ellis, and one for girls by Jeanette H. W. worth. The editor of the new magazine is Frank Lee Farnell, who has been connected with Frank Leslie's Publishing House for a number of years, and who thoroughly understands what will please and interest the young people.

DEAFNESS CANNOT BE CURED by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube gets inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give $100 for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

MATRIMONIAL.

PETIT MEER.—Shipton Pettit and Miss Elizabeth Meek eloped from Princeton, Ky., and were married in Jeffersonville Sunday afternoon. An hour before Capt. Cisco received a telegram from the father of the girl to arrest them, as the boy was but 17 and the girl but 16.

Mr. Alex. S. Cox and Miss Bettie Boulware will be married at the Christian church on the evening of October 17th. Both are well known and popular in social circles and their wedding is one that has been expected for some time. There will be several couples of attendants and the affair will be quite brilliant.

BLACKBURN LANE.—Miss Lucille Blackburn, daughter of Senator J. S. C. Blackburn, was wedded at Washington Tuesday to Thomas J. Lane the New Jersey capitalist and newspaper man. The wedding took place at St. Matthew's church, and was witnessed by a chosen few.

HARRIS-TAYLOR.—The marriage of Miss Elio Taylor to Mr. John W. Harris, occurred at the residence of the bride's father, Dr. J. H. Taylor, One-hundred Twenty-fourth street, 8 O'clock, Dr. J. W. Mollo, of the Fourth Presbyterian church, officiating in his usual happy style. The marriage was a very quiet one, only a few friends and relatives being present. Mr. Harris is connected with the Louisville Post and is a very popular member of the press.

OAK GROVE, Oct. 1.—As your correspondent has early realized that something must be done on this cold night to keep up circulation of the blood to prevent a state of perfect numbness, he concluded to write an epistle to your paper, having decided that it was cheaper than coal when the shed was entirely deprived of that article.

Jack Frost made his first appearance in these parts last night.

A pronounced meeting is in progress at Salem near here, conducted by the pastor, Rev. J. L. Cheek, an able divine. He is treating his congregations to some very fine sermons and it is hoped much good will be accomplished. Large crowds attend regularly.

We are going to chronicle the illness of our dear Christian neighbor, Mrs. T. A. Williams. She has been quite sick for some time and doesn't seem to be improving.

Among the others who are and have been sick recently are Mrs. W. A. McKenzie, Miss Elizabeth Garrett, Master Ashton and little Mary Montgomery, L. A. Fugle and Mrs. Tom Dayman and children.

The tobacco and corn all cut and housed and corn cutting is the order of the day.

We are very much in need of rain. Mrs. D. A. Harmon and Miss Mac King, of Clarksville, visited Mrs. W. A. McKenzie last Sunday.

Mr. Ed Munford and Miss Mary Brimhurst, of Clarksville, visited the family of Mr. E. H. Garrett Sept. 29.

Mr. Robt. Garrett, who is attending school at Guthrie, visited his parents last week.

Mr. W. L. Canale of Howell, was among his friends here Sunday.

Miss Ann Salles is visiting relatives near here this week.

Mrs. J. A. B. Wood has returned from Adams Station, Tenn.

It is rumored that a wedding will occur near here some more of these beautiful autumn days are numbered with the past. We will withhold the names of the present.

Mrs. F. A. Wootton and son Ed, will leave soon for Texas, where they hope Ed's health will be perfectly restored.

Song of Willie Bradley.

Have you ever heard the story Of the man named Willie B. Who was worshipped by the members Of the honored G. O. P.?

How he told the "colored gentlemen" Of his time far away They could never get the distinction Between the whites and them away.

CHORUS.

O my poor deluded friends Hear me now, I pray, He has always been a coward And he's just the same to-day.

Surely you have heard how Willie Got up to speak in Kentucky, Just to let him ride one rail Of the Grand Old Party's fence.

But there arose a slight disturbance Put outside the fair-ground gate, And the Plumed Knight left the platform, Thus ended the joint debate.

CHORUS.

Wat Hardin as he the chase too hot Bill sought some means to try The track; that any man of honor Would stick to, though he die.

O guard your valiant (7) champion, Your brave little baby Bill, Tell him to be good and try to beacred By allowing in a silver pill.

from the readers to beginners. Many of the words in the spelling book are rarely used. Combine written and oral spelling all through. In oral spelling the pupil gets drill in articulation and pronunciation. In written spelling we practice it as in after life. An exercise in penmanship if properly conducted.

After intermission Prof. Arner took up the subject of reading. This important branch much neglected. Good oral reading is conveying to the listener the ideas of the writer. Object of silent reading is to gather thought. In order to read well it is necessary to thoroughly study the lesson. I, myself, have read a passage a dozen times to get a correct expression. How necessary then for the pupil to make an exhaustive study of the selection. Make haste slowly in this matter, cultivate an easy natural position in the class. The body must be easy or the mind can not be free.

Prof. McCartney: We find pupils read, second and third readers reading beautifully afterwards.

690. Marked ruled firm, and be higher best selected medium hogs $4 25 to 4 30, best heavy packers $4 10 to 4 20, and light $4 20 to 4 25. All sold, outlook fair.

Prof. Bartholomew: In answer to the first question would say failure on part of the teacher to do his work properly. The remedy naturally suggests itself.

Prof. Coyner: Is the word the unit of thought.

Prof. Bartholomew: No, it is evidently the sentence.

Prof. Lindsay: In obedience to a false public sentiment we have to go over the ground too rapidly. This of necessity makes bad readers.

Prof. Henson: The failure to read well in advanced classes due to faulty training in the primary work.

Prof. McCartney found his boys in advanced reading cultivated a habit of stolidity. This might be overcome if the teacher were enthusiastic.

EVENING SESSION.

Music by Miss Winfree. Roll call. Prof. T. B. Walker, by request, sang an humorous song entitled "Putting on Style." He was liberally applauded.

Prof. Bartholomew then addressed on the teachers in the school, in the home circle and in society. The teacher is himself with every activity that could be of use to him or elevate his calling. Prof. Bartholomew said that he himself was a member of every club—using that word in its best sense—and of every historical or literary society of importance in the city. There is no excuse for the teacher appearing in the school community, in this direction where there is a will there is a way. He should never have off his coat, collar or necktie in the presence of his pupils. Should not, it possible, be a user of tobacco, in any form. Of course, no man of intemperate habits should follow this high calling. Our example should be in harmony with the loftiest aims. The teacher should be qualified to discuss the living issues of the day. Attendance on the different associations will do much to elevate his professional standing.

Miss Walker then sang in a charming manner. Being recalled she sang another selection.

Professor Murphy began the discussion on "Order in the School Room" and "Some Mistakes in Teaching." One of the most vital points in teaching is discipline. No discipline, no school. More teachers split upon this rock than any other. To secure attention the teacher must have skill in presenting a subject, and must be filled with enthusiasm. Incompetency the part of the instructor fruitful of disorder. The teacher himself often provokes disorder by his own disorder—loud talking, making threats, frequent bell ringing, etc. Do not notice every thing in the school! Don't require impossibilities of the child.

Prof. Bartholomew: A discipline school is one in which one pupil does not interfere with the rights of other. Where each is free to do his own work.

After intermission Miss Carrie A. Wood by special request read an original poem entitled "The Little Country School-House. There were many beautiful passages, which gave evidence of poetic talent.

The County Superintendent then organized a Reading Circle, enrolling teachers. This makes a pretty good showing for Christian. An evidence that her teachers are alive to the importance of professional culture.

Prof. Donnell opened the discussion on Civics. We teach this subject that the pupils may learn the necessity of government. Learn to govern themselves then they can govern others. We also teach it that they may know something of their duties and privileges in this great land of ours.

"In a Day of Darkness."

This is the title of a book just issued from the University Press, Nashville, by Miss Frances Florence Brasher of this city. It is well printed in paper binding and is for sale at Hopper Bros. and Elgin's at fifty cents. The authoress is quite young and this is her first literary venture. She is the petite daughter of the late Judge J. C. Brasher, and undoubtedly possesses remarkable literary talent for one of her age. The book is a story of absorbing interest and is written in a pleasing style and well chosen language. Do not fail to read it.

Annual Cotton Review.

We have received the twenty-second edition of Latham, Alexander & Co's annual book of "Cotton Movement and Fluctuations," which has become a standard cotton book of reference.

It contains a review of the cotton trade of the world, and an interesting article entitled "Cotton Trade of India," written by Mr. H. B. H. Edmonds, editor of the Manufacturer's Record, Baltimore, and a biographical sketch of the Hon. Sterling Morton, secretary of agriculture.

Besides the usual tables of receipts, stocks, exports, consumption, acreage, total visible supply and fluctuations, there is much interesting original matter that cannot be found elsewhere in such a concise form.

The book also contains their annual review of the cotton trade for the past season.

This publication is issued for gratuitous distribution among their friends and customers. It covers the whole range of information needed in the "cotton world" and its contents are most useful and instructive.

Mrs. Layne's Fall Display.

In this issue Mrs. Ada Layne announces her Fall opening of fine millinery goods, which occurs next Tuesday and Wednesday, Oct. 8 and 9.

On the occasion Mrs. Layne will have on display at the Palace over one hundred pattern hats and bonnets, the latest thing out in these lines, and will offer them at greatly reduced prices. All the ladies are invited to call and look through her elegant stock whether they are ready to make their fall purchases or not.

Mrs. Layne brought largely this season and the ladies can depend upon it that her goods are strictly the latest and first class in every respect.

The Roman Trolley.

At the present time the omnibuses and a few horse cars constitute the principal means of travel in the streets of Rome. A concession has, however, been granted to the Societa Romana degli Omnibus for the building of an electric road to run from the general post office to the principal railroad station in that city. Grades of considerable size will have to be overcome. The overhead Thomson-Houston trolley system will be adopted.—Scientific American.

A Floating Theater.

Boston has a floating theater, a playhouse built on a flatboat that rides at anchor in Marine Park. It is handsomely finished in white and gold, profusely decorated with potted plants and ferns and the walls literally covered with nautical paintings and divers touches. It has a seating capacity of fourteen hundred, a large and roomy stage with a dozen or more appropriate settings, and an artistically designed curtain.
